Why BIHS

When people ask “how many more years of studying do you have? “ you’re just like “ till death do us apart!” More and more has yet to come, for the seeker. Hi! I’m Ayesha a DPT student. One goes through school, college, medical college.....learning tittle or nothing about goodness or success but here at BIHS I got to learn both. BIHS gave me the arena and environment to face my fears, challenges them and to win over them. Here they thought me how not to be “just only a doctor!” but how to put knowledge into practice to be a good professional and be better human. I’m honored to be the part of BIHS, which is not only an institute but a vision of active role of health care service provider in the community.

Why BIHS

I joined BIHS to be a part of a dental care degree. Here, at BIHS, I realized it's not just a degree to get; it’s a responsibility to come up with. With time, here, at BIHS, I got to learn that it’s not only the crown we have on our molars we need to care of, there is one more on our minds and souls that are needed to be polished each day with good deeds and manners to become a better person, not to conquer others, but our shortcomings.

Rules & Regulations for Safe Lab Environments:
Safety in the laboratory involves a cautious attitude and an awareness of potential hazards. Usually potential accidents can be anticipated and prevented. If safety precautions are followed, fewer accidents will occur. The number of laboratory accidents can be reduced if every student follows all of the directions given for the experiment and by the instructor.

Special note should be taken of specific instructions that are given in an experiment to eliminate recognized potential hazards.
Students are expected to observe the following rules while performing the practical in labs; any violation of these rules will incur appropriate disciplinary action.
A. General Regulations
1. Lab assistant is not responsible for damage to personal effects.
2. Whenever students are performing authorized experiments in the laboratory, an instructor is expected to be present or a student needs explicit permission from the instructor to work in the laboratory in which case the student must have a partner present in the lab.
3. Any breakage of glassware or other breakable laboratory equipment is to be immediately reported to the laboratory instructor. DO NOT CLEAN UP THE BROKEN GLASS. Your laboratory instructor will clean up and dispose of all broken glassware and equipment.
4. Electronic devices, such as cellular phones and pagers, and any personal entertainment devices must be turned off prior to the beginning of the lab period. Failure to comply will result in dismissal.
5. No visitors should attend class without the prior consent of the instructor.
6. Failure to comply with laboratory rules and regulations will result in expulsion from the laboratory and referral to the Department Chair for further action.

B. Student Responsibility
1. Locate The Safety Equipment. Find the eyewash, safety shower, fire extinguishers, fire blanket, first-aid kit and all exits that are to be used in an emergency.

3. Long hair needs to be pulled back.
4. Shoes worn to lab must cover your feet completely. Since broken glass and spilled chemicals are all too common occurrences in lab, your feet will need more protection than that afforded by open-toed shoes or sandals.
5. Students must be dressed properly for lab. Wear clothes that will provide you with the maximum protection and coverage as possible. Shirts must cover to top of bottoms. Long skirts are allowed if they fall at the ankle.
6. Food and drink are not allowed in the laboratory room.

8. Do not smell chemicals directly. Use your hand to waft the odor to your nose if you are directed to note an odor in an experimental procedure.
9. When dealing with any biological material or chemical, take all necessary precautions to avoid skin contact, use adequate equipment and ventilation, and treat all samples with extreme care.
10. Wear gloves when working with the samples and chemicals.

C. Lab assistant Rules
1. Report all chemical spills to your laboratory instructor. Clean up all solid and liquid spills immediately.
2. Do not pour any chemicals into the sink or dispose of any chemicals in the trash without prior authorization.
3. Beakers should be used to obtain stock materials. If, when dispensing stock solutions you obtain too much, do not return excess. Stock solutions back into the stock solution containers. This will contaminate the stock solution.

5. Do not insert a dropper or pipette into a stock solution container. Pour a small amount of the stock solution into a beaker and then insert your dropper or pipette into the beaker.
6. Take no more of a chemical than the experimental procedure requires. Carefully read the procedure and determine the quantity of each stock solution and/or chemical you need. Obtain only that amount. If you take too much, share it with your neighbor. Never return the excess to the stock chemical bottle.
7. Do not put paper or solid waste into the sinks.
D. Accident and Emergency Procedures

1. Each individual is to report any accident, no matter how small, to the laboratory instructor. If necessary, the laboratory instructor will give a written report of the incident to the Department Chair.
